Every door is a barrier to fire. It's also critical that if you are fleeing a fire, you close all doors behind you, to prevent the flames from spreading and putting others in harm's way. It works both ways.

'I've never been so scared': D.C. fire crews forced to serve on run-down rigs

D.C. Fire and Emergency Medical Services Department falls behind on new truck purchases

As a three-alarm fire ripped through a D.C. seniors facility in September, firefighters discovered that the ladders on Trucks 13 and 16 didn't work and needed to be replaced with a reserve truck. But there was no reserve, so they were forced to pull a truck — Tower 3 — that was being repaired in the maintenance facility.
